

SAWMILL EMPLOYEE SHOT THROUGH ARM DURING A QUARREL

Head Sawyer at Indian Creek Wounded After a Scuffle.

NEGRO SHOTS UP MEYERSDALE

Is Badly Wounded Resisting Capture at Shaw Mines and is in Cumberland Hospital With Bullet Through His Lung; Terrorizes the Community.

Two shootings occurred in the mountain district yesterday. At Indian Creek a man was shot through the arm, while at Meyersdale a negro terrorized the community and was captured only after he had been shot through the lungs.

At the McKelvey Lumber Company's mill at Indian Creek, quarrel between a head sawyer, and William Austin, who has charge of the force and keeps the machinery in repair, resulted in a scuffle. The sawyer was shot through the arm. There had been trouble between the two men since the discharge of some employees. Quarrels were frequent, and resulted in the trouble yesterday afternoon.

The men clashed about 5.30, after most of the employees had left the mill. Fish is said to have pushed Austin over on a slab pile, when the latter, a small man, drew a revolver and fired twice. The first bullet missed its mark but the second struck Fish in the arm. He came to Connellville, where he had the wound dressed.

After shooting up Meyersdale in true Western style, then going to Shaw mines, about two miles distant, shooting at a woman, terrorizing the people in the Consolidation Coal Company's store and knocking a woman to the floor three times without interference, a negro named Albert Smithers was shot in the arm and through the right lung, and is now in a critical condition at the Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland.

Smithers is reported by the police of Meyersdale to be a bad negro and it is alleged that he had been carrying a gun for some time. He went to Meyersdale from Clarksburg, some time ago and he lately been living in a shanty near Shaw mines. Yesterday afternoon the authorities at Meyersdale were notified that after drinking in the town he, in company with another man, started about for Shaw mines, stopping long enough within the borders of Meyersdale to shoot up the town and terrorize the people of that neighborhood. Smithers and his companion quickly took outside the reach of the town, and were later the officers were called upon by the county authorities to go to Shaw mines, where he was reported on a rampage.

It was reported that he had entered the company store at Shaw mines, where he had been terrorized the men, and had three times knocked a woman to the floor. Previous to this he had shot at another woman. In leaving the store Smithers is alleged to have remarked that he would shoot the first man that came after him.

As the county officers could not go over to Shaw Mines Chief of Police D. R. Cramer and Policeman J. P. Harte, of the Meyersdale force, were deputized and requested to arrest Smithers. As they approached his shanty the officers saw him sitting on the porch. As soon as he saw them coming he went inside and attempted to escape by the back door. As he emerged from the door he drew his revolver on Chief Cramer, but it failed to go off and the chief ordered him to halt and give himself up. Smithers ran for another building and just as he ran around the corner he came within range of Officer Harte's gun. Smithers fired at Officer Harte and missed him, but the policeman took better aim and sent a bullet through the fleshy part of Smithers' right arm, and through the right lung the leaden missile lodging in the back.

He was taken in charge by the officers and Policeman Harte took him to Cumberland on the Duquesne Limited and placed him in the Western Maryland Hospital, where Smithers was operated upon by Dr. A. J. Hawkins, assisted by Drs. W. A. Gracie and H. R. Hodges. The bullet was not removed. At the request of the Pennsylvania authorities an officer was placed at the hospital to guard the prisoner.

BALSLEY RESIGNS PLACE AS TREASURER OF SCHOOL BOARD

Lloyd Shaw Chosen to Succeed Him; Citizens National Made Deposit for All Funds.

It was one of the shortest held by the regular monthly meeting of the School Board last evening was short. It was one of the shortest held by the directors in several months. Posture out of the ordinary were the resignation of C. H. Balsley as treasurer and the awarding of the custody of the district funds to the Citizens' National Bank.

Mr. Balsley, who was not present at the reorganization meeting a week ago, declared that he was unable to act as treasurer and asked that his resignation be accepted. This was done and Lloyd Shaw was elected his successor.

In response to the board's advertisement for bids for the custody of the school funds, two proposals were received. That of the Young Trust Company provided for the payment of four per cent interest on the sinking funds. No offer was made for the general fund. The Citizens National Bank proposed to pay 4 1/2 per cent for the sinking fund and two per cent for the general fund. The latter was given the contract.

The property committee reported receiving several bids for the painting of the South Side building, and one from the Greenwood building.

The proposal of Fred Whit, calling for a payment of $350, was the lowest, and he was given the contract. All rooms of the South Side building, with the exception of one, are to be renovated. The work of the exterior is also to be painted.

This is the Time of Year When Deaths by Drowning are Frequent, With Rescues That Have Thrilling Incidents

CORONER'S INQUEST SHEDS NO NEW LIGHT ON MURDER-SUICIDE

Witnesses Tell of Quarrels Between Trotter Man and Wife.

NO WITNESSES TO THE CRIME

Tuesday Funerals are Being Arranged; Mohollik is Buried This Afternoon; Victims Will be Laid in the Ground Tomorrow; Jury's Verdict.

Following the action of the coroner's jury last night in returning a verdict of murder against George Mohollik, who killed his wife and three children and then committed suicide early yesterday morning, relatives of the family at Trotter are today preparing for the funerals.

The murderer is to be buried this afternoon, while his victims will be buried tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Mohollik will be buried either in the Connellville cemetery or the little plot of ground in a corner of the St. John's cemetery near Trotter. The murderer-suicide will be buried without the rites of his church.

At the funerals of Mrs. Mohollik and the children, services will be conducted in St. John's Evangelical Church and interment will be made in the St. John's cemetery. Rev. Father Falcioni will officiate, and will be assisted by Rev. Father E. E. Gollub, of Donora, formerly of Connellville, and Rev. Father Morabak of Monaca.

No new developments were brought out at last night's inquest. Coroner J. J. Bell, with the members of the jury, was on the scene early, and the proceedings were started shortly after 7 o'clock. Many witnesses testified, but few told anything that was new.

Mrs. Anna Hansico told of hearing the pair quarrel from the neighboring porch on Sunday evening. She testified that the quarrel was violent. It continued throughout the greater part of the day.

John Costello testified to being the first to enter the house following the tragedy. He was followed by the cries of George and Joan Mohollik, the boys who escaped from the building in their night clothes. He forced open a lower door, made his way to the upper part and found the bodies in the front bedroom.

John Honesyuckel, who lives in the other side of the double house in which the Moholliks resided, was still awake when the tragedy occurred. He heard the shots fired. Without investigating the cause of the shooting Honesyuckel ran to the home of Constable William Roland, and Roland accompanied him back to the Mohollik house.

Several neighbors were called to the stand, but they shed no new light on the tragedy. All told of hearing the pair quarrel, and it was revealed that Mr. and Mrs. Mohollik had been at odds almost continually since the woman returned from a recent trip to her home in Austria on May 10.

No one had seen the man drink intoxicants during the day and it was the opinion of those who heard the testimony that he brooded over his wrongs until driven out of his mind. The jury was composed of William Roland, Frank Roland, P. J. Torrey, Joseph P. Corbett, Frank LaBlack and Lindsay Fraser.

CLARK BILL TEST COMES NEXT WEEK IN COUNTY COURT

Municipal League Will Have Its Cases Ready for Argument Then.

SIX ARGUMENTS TO BE MADE

Four Considered Sufficient Until E. C. Hughes Found Another "Hole" in the Commission Government Measure; Getting Volunteer Candidates.

The test of the Clark commission government bill will be made in the county courts at Uniontown, next Tuesday. If the court holds that the Clark bill applies to Connellville, no further action will be taken, but if the decision is adverse, an appeal will be made to the Supreme Court. It is said, in that event, no decision can be obtained until October. This will complicate matters, as the primary election is to be held on September 15 this year.

The committee named by the Municipal League to take charge of the matter, met last night in the offices of S. R. Goldsmith, the chairman. All the other members, J. Fred Kuntz, M. B. Pryce, J. R. Wortman and P. E. Markoll, were on hand. A list of 15 was decided upon from which the candidates will be selected for purposes of the litigation.

A letter from Attorney E. C. Hughes caused a change in the original plans, and instead of four suits, six will be started. Candidates will be asked to stand for the following positions: Mayor and councilman under the Clark bill; mayor and councilman on a partisan ticket, under the Clark bill; mayor and councilman on party tickets, under the third class city law of 1889; and burgess under the existing borough laws.

Hughes stated in his letter that the partisan ticket feature of the Clark bill might be declared unconstitutional, in event of the other provisions being upheld, and proposed that a test be made to be on the safe side.

There will be another meeting of the committee tonight and the members hope that in the meantime Hughes will not locate any more flaws in the Clark measure. They are getting dizzy keeping track of them.

Today prospective candidates are being approached and asked to give their assistance by permitting the use of their names as candidates.

BIXLER WILL FILE 3 SETS OF OFFICES FOR THE PRIMARY

Borough Clerk Decides to Take No Chances Under the New Law.

LAST DAY TO FILL VACANCIES

Commission Government, Old Style City Jobs, and Borough Offices to be Voted On, Commissioners Will Learn; Consults the Solicitor.

Under the new statewide primary law, this is the last day on which to certify vacancies to the county commissioners. Borough Clerk A. O. Bixler is undecided as to what the procedure will be in Connellville, and, after consulting with Borough Solicitor F. D. Munson, reached the conclusion it would be best to cover all contingencies.

The commissioners will learn this afternoon that Connellville is electing officials for three different kinds of government. Their action may have some bearing on the litigation proposed by the Municipal League to test the Clark bill.

Clerk Bixler decided to certify vacancies for offices under the Clark commission government bill the old third class city law, and the borough law. His report will be made accordingly.

The officers to be covered under the Clark bill are a mayor, controller and four councilmen. Under the old third class city law they include a mayor, controller, treasurer, seven select councilmen and 21 common councilmen. Under both of these measures, there are seven aldermen, seven constables and 21 election officers to be chosen.

Under the borough law, Bixler will certify to vacancies in the offices of burgess, 21 councilmen and two justices of the peace. The constables are also included, as are the election officers. Assessors will also be named.

It is probable that the action of the commissioners on this mass of literature from Connellville may have a direct bearing on the Clark bill litigation.

Secretary C. W. Hays of the School Board announced that he would certify to the two school directors who must be chosen this fall.

It was not generally known that today was the last on which vacancies could be certified to the new statewide primary bill provides that the city and borough clerks, secretaries of school boards, etc., must certify to the county commissioners the titles and number of offices to be filled, each by election, on or before the ninth Tuesday preceding the fall primary election.

Today is the ninth Tuesday.

HOUSE GETS BUSY

To Pass Newlands Resolution in Double Quick Time.

United Press Telegram.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Passage in double quick time of the Newlands amendment to the Erdman act to avert a strike of the trainmen and conductors of the eastern railroads is the business before the House today.

To hasten the passage of the resolution, Republican Leader Mann reached an agreement with the Democratic leaders to postpone action on all other business until the resolution is disposed of. Before night is expected that the measure will have passed both houses and will have received the signature of the President.

After all, the measure will have passed both houses and will have received the signature of the President.

YES, IT RAINED.

Now for 40 Days of It, Or St. Swithin Loses His Rep.

It will have to rain for 40 days to save the reputation of St. Swithin. This is St. Swithin's Day, and this morning it poured. Had it not, the old adage says there would have been a similar period of drought.

However, the die is cast. If it doesn't rain every day for the next forty, St. Swithin will be relegated to the groundless class. No one takes St. Swithin's Day seriously, but it is hard to down an old superstition, and this is one of the oldest.

Date for Trial Fixed.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—Maury Digne and Dr. Camille will be tried on August 5 for violation of the Mann White Slave Act. Judge Van Fleet of the United States District Court, who set the date of the trial, also fixed the time for the hearing of the Western Fuel case for August 25.

Prepare for G. A. R. Reunion.

At a meeting of the veterans and other citizens of Dawson held in the Union hall, N. J. Riet was named chairman of the committee on arrangements for the annual reunion of the 86th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, to be held in Dawson September 2 and 3.

Baltimore & Ohio Employee Asks Special Cops to Protect Him.

Fearing death, John Terino, a laborer employed by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, reported to one of the company's special officers that he had been receiving threatening letters, demanding money.

Terino asserted that the blackmailers demand $250 in default of which they threaten to take his life and destroy his little shack situated along the Baltimore & Ohio right-of-way. He told the officer that the fact that he has $900 in the bank became noised about, and that the letters have been becoming more frequent and more threatening.

Terino asked the officer for permission to carry a revolver, but this the cop was unable to give.

Aaron's--The Store for All the People All the Time

Truly. Aaron's is THE STORE FOR ALL THE PEOPLE ALL THE TIME and never was that so truly exemplified as in the splendid growth of this wide awake institution in the past few years. We have grown with the times because we have lived with the times—and from the very first inception of this great business we have always striven to do more, to give greater values and better service than any other store. No better way could we explain to the public the finer facilities here than a visit right now to this big splendidly equipped furniture store. Crammed almost to the roof with snappy new Furniture styles and the very latest ideas in home furnishings at lower prices than you can buy anywhere in this section of Pennsylvania, made possible because of our greater purchases, always in entire car-load lots from the largest and finest factories makers in the United States. The biggest furniture and rug manufacturers recognize in Aaron's three big stores the natural outlet for home furnishings and high class furniture in this part of the State—that's why it pays everybody to trade here, where the varieties are larger, the styles always ahead of the times and the prices always lower.

DEMOCRATIC STATESMANSHIP.

In their anxiety to play to the galleries the Democratic Congressmen have assumed attitudes anything but statesmanlike. Perhaps the most ridiculous performance they have staged for the benefit of the American public is the heated rivalry between the House and Senate as to which body shall sooner spring the biggest Lobby probe sensation.

The Senate began this inquiry on complaint of President Wilson who asserted that there was an "insidious lobby" at work in Washington. In its early stages, the inquiry bordered on the ridiculous, and the House was content to let the Senate conduct it. But in the meantime Senator Atchafal, a man without a job but not without a grouse, publicly announced that he had for years been a lobbyist for the American Association of Manufacturers. The House picked up its ears and Representative Wilson, whose other name is Phil, moved the appointment of a Probe committee. The appointment was immediately made and the mover of the resolution was named as chairman. He and his committee set out at once to scrub the floor and the Senate turned upon themselves and their house the light of publicity; in fine, to put Phil on the Senate.

But the Senate committee was not to be robbed of its glory in such a shameful manner. Its members gathered Phil all unto them and put him away in cold storage where subpoena servers couldn't reach him. He is now before the Senate committee under guard to prevent his being kidnapped by the House committee.

The Common People in the meantime wonder why it is necessary for the House to investigate a question which is being diligently inquired into by the Senate, especially in view of the fact that both inquiries are under Democratic auspices.

THE QUAKER BOSS.

The combination which wrested the Democratic organization from Colonel James Anderson Guttery and set a Triumvirate in place of the Bossship has been succeeded by a Caesar in the person of the Honorable A. Mitchell Palmer. George W. Gutherie has been sent to Japan and McChesick seems to have been crowded out. The Quaker politician has thus become Emperor. A Washington dispatch says:

"Contests over the Federal appointments in Pennsylvania will be settled at the meeting of the Democratic State Committee in Harrisburg, July 23. The understanding here is that A. Mitchell Palmer will endeavor to control the committee and that President Wilson will not make any further Pennsylvania appointments of importance until after its meeting. The committee will elect a new State Chairman. Palmer is said to favor Roland S. Morris of Philadelphia. The committee will select a new secretary to succeed James L. Blakeslee, whom Palmer had appointed Fourth Assistant Postmaster General. Palmer expects to name the secretary as well as the chairman."

Fervent county Democrats have indulged the fond hope that Bruce Foster Sterling would, under grace of recent political services and in memory of past boyhood recollections, be the choice of the Democratic Caucus for State Chairman. But it seems that a Philadelphia man has been picked for the place, and, strange to say, the Conneltsville News, personal organ of County Chairman Sterling, several days ago suddenly discovered that the same Philadelphia unknown had the qualifications of the State Chairman. It is now in order for The News to rise again and annihilate the Quaker Boss for Governor.

A DEMOCRATIC MERGER.

The much-talked merger of the Le Belle Iron & Steel Company, the Wheeling Steel & Iron Company, and the Whitaker & Steel Company, which has hung fire for a considerable period, is now announced to be practically concluded. It was undoubtedly hastened by the evident purpose of the Democratic Congress to reduce the cost of the State of Pennsylvania and steel products to practically nothing, thereby making it very difficult for small manufacturers to operate their plants at a profit. The higher American manufacturing enterprise which President Wilson talks about can only be reached by combinations of capital controlling all stages of manufacture from the raw material to the finished product and eliminating the profits of the middlemen.

SANITARY FIRST.

The Safety First policy of the Conneltsville coke operators, and particularly the L. C. Frick Coke Company, the pioneer promoter of this policy, is shown in the fact that the Frick company produces three times as much coal per death as the West Virginia regions, and twice as much as the bituminous regions of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois, and of the entire United States. It is further eloquently expressed in the following figures showing the deaths per million tons of coal produced from mining in the Frick and foreign mines:

Producer.	1910	1911	1912
Scotland	3.98	4.12	3.50
South Wales	5.50	5.67	6.51
All Britain	4.87	4.73	4.51
L. C. Frick Coke Co.	1.50	1.72	1.85

The Uniontown Genius still has a Democratic editor. It is consequently Democratic still, but every now and then it makes a noise like Bryan and no compromise.

"Simple and efficient" is the judgment of the Conneltsville News and the new Democratic County bill, and its simplicity and efficiency seems to lie in the fact, as we learn further on, that under the provisions of the law Government control of the banks will be absolute. This is a rather dangerous power to put into the hands of a political administration, but it is natural for a Democratic organ to think that it is a "simple and efficient" method of perpetuating Democratic power.

Don't blame it on Saint Swithin. He didn't invent the superstition.

The Democratic County Committee will meet in the high school building on July 19, 1913, at 8 P. M., to elect a chairman to succeed Bruce T. Sterling. The faithful are in some doubt. The official organ has not given out the tip.

Jupiter Pluvius seems determined to clean up the state of Ohio.

The Direct Primary will be held in this odd-numbered year of political space on the third Tuesday of September, being the 19th. Candidates for Conneltsville's city offices will be wise to get out their beams and limber them up, even if they do have to put them back in cold storage again.

The West Side reports a recent near-corner in hop-tounds.

A Washington Solomon has adopted a test of drunkenness which is novel but not new. It makes the candidate walk a chalk line. If they walk it straight, they are declared sober; if they wobble, they are drunk.

The Scottsdale auto policeman hit the wrong man.

Wisconsin has passed a fool marriage law which requires the consent of at least one parent of the contracting parties regardless of the age of the parties. It is not explained what is done when there are no parents.

The Western Maryland seeks more local business for its Conneltsville division and has sent a scouting party here to survey the situation. Without meaning to insinuate much less dictate we might respectfully suggest that where competition exists for any business the lowest rates and the best service take the lion's share.

The Presbyterian church tower, like the Presbyterian church, was a tower of strength.

Swirling automobiles and taking surreptitious joy rides is the favorite prank of mischievous Conneltsville boys just now. It's more fun than sending in false fire alarms.

The year 1913 is being blamed for a great many things, but perhaps greater evil would prevent some of the numerous railroad, trolley, mine and other accidents.

The noble soul man is no longer disappearing behind the setting sun. He is becoming civilized, prosperous, numerous and ambitious. What's the use of disappearing when he can ride in an automobile and sit in the halls of legislation?

The railroad strike situation was accurately analyzed by The Courier yesterday.

The woman who longs to talk usually talks too long.

Interesting Facts About Fresh Meats

It is a well known fact to every head of a family, that the high prices on fresh meats, really on all kinds of meats and meat products, continue, but perhaps everybody buying meats, every head of a family, does not know that the Union Supply Company sell a high quality of fresh beef, steaks, roasts and all other choice cuts at from three to five cents a pound less than most of the regular butcher shops. Ask the man who buys from the Union Supply Company meat shops about the quality of our meats; about our prices; about our service; about the sanitary meat markets, and you will get the information; you will get it more emphatic than we can write it in this advertisement. It will pay you to go a long distance to a Union Supply Company store to buy your fresh meats, bolognas, sausages, minced ham, corned beef, boiled hams, and all sorts of stuff that is kept in a first-class meat market. We slaughter all our own cattle, remember, in modern, sanitary slaughter houses, approved by the United States Government and Pennsylvania state inspectors.

FLOUTING OF THE COUNCIL ROUSES MEMBERS IRE

Scottdale Citizen Took His Time and Then Beat Them

IN SOME SIDEWALK AFFAIRS

Regular Monthly Meeting Was Held After a Week's Delay on Account of Failure to Secure a Quorum; Two Weeks Pay Law Is Discussed

Special to The Courier. July 15.—Town council, which failed to have their regular monthly meeting a week previous, secured a quorum last evening, and amid the cries of the carnival spellers outside, held a long session. The front door of the council chamber had to be closed in order that the members could be heard as the noise outside was voluminous. Action was taken giving the firemen permission to hold the carnival, Burgess R. P. Ellis would not take responsibility for the coming of the shows, and councilmen said that the firemen's committee came to them individually, as there was no regular meeting and the carnival company had the open date at this time, they had to have the arrangements made. The general sentiment seemed to have been that if the property owners had no objection to having the shows pitched on the streets the council would interfere no objections. The matter was one on which there had been a good deal of discussion and it was fixed up by taking the proper action at this time.

The manner in which M. J. Kelly of the Central hotel, put it over on the borough as the councilmen thought, was another subject of consideration. A long time ago Mr. Kelly was among ones ordered to lay a sidewalk on High street. While others did the work he waited until late and started to put down a brick walk. His workmen were stopped in the forenoon by Chief Frank McCudden. When they went back in the afternoon they were arrested. Early the next morning a fine was put on and had the brick sidewalk laid before any one got around. Plaster and concrete are the only materials allowed by ordinance in new sidewalks. The street committee was instructed to go ahead and see whether or not the council has anything to say about such things or whether the ordinances are any good. The ordinance on streets and sidewalks which was to have been brought up sometime ago and was not ready.

The new law providing for two weeks pay was talked over. Some thought that the law should be followed at once. Others thought that an exact copy of the law and its interpretation on its relation to borough employees should first be had. No one objected to the two weeks pay, and the ones who were not ready to begin the payment until they have an opinion had their own way.

Those members present were Mr. L. Haines, Lettice Baker, A. E. Collins, O. M. Jurett, H. J. Springer, W. W. Hines, H. G. Marks and President W. L. Schaffer.

GOOT IT GOING.
The carnival under the auspices of the volunteer fire department got going on Monday evening, after a day of strenuous preparation, but with not all of the concessions in operation. The presence of confetti and ticklers was a new departure for Scottdale, but it is said that these

Connellsville.
Connellsville—the Center of the Cokes Region—an embryo city.

Connellsville has a chamber of commerce. Connellsville has a municipal league. Connellsville needs a "stick together club."

Did you ever stop to think that if Connellsville was for Connellsville, that Connellsville might be a greater Connellsville than it is?

In other words if Connellsville people patronized Connellsville business places more fully Connellsville industries would grow materially.

Now did you ever stop to think? Connellsville TALKS about NEW industries. That is good; the more the better.

But if for one year Connellsville would strictly patronize Connellsville, we venture to say CONNELLSVILLE WOULD EXPERIENCE A BOOM.

Take one plant and figure what it would mean to Connellsville.

This plant has been running only a little over a year yet its payroll alone has turned out Connellsville business houses nearly $15,000.00.

A large part of this is money brought in from outside sections. Think how much greater the amount if Connellsville gave full support.

No plant carries more help than is required to do its work. The deduction follows: More patronage, more employees; more employees, greater payroll; greater payroll, more patronage to stores; more patronage better streets, so on ad infinitum.

Connellsville as seen from the standpoint of the Goodwin Company, cleaners and dyers. We solicit your patronage.—Adv.

MOUNT PLEASANT, July 15.—On Saturday evening about 4:30 o'clock Werry, the agent for the Atlantic Reeling Company, was driving the oil wagon across the Pennsylvania railroad tracks at the east end of town, near the oil tank, when the driver struck the wagon, hitting Mr. Werry about 15 feet across the track. He escaped with a few bruises. The wagon wheels were broken to small pieces and the tongue was also broken. The horses broke loose and ran but were soon caught.

The street committee of council have granted ground enough for an alleyway in the alley alongside the new building, agreeing to grant the permit on express conditions that if Kobacker and Jerome and Alfred Kobacker are responsible for all damages which may result from the construction and maintenance of this alleyway, and should the borough ever pass an ordinance restricting size and use of alleyways, that they shall immediately reconstruct the said alleyway in accordance with the ordinance.

The WOMAN

A Novel by Albert Payson Terhune

Founded on William C. de Mille's Play

Illustrated with Photos from the Play and Drawings by K. L. Barnes

Meligan's lips flew apart with the force of a retort that leaped to them, but the words were never formulated. For Blake, beaming on the newcomer like a father upon his dearest loved son, exclaimed affectionately:

"Why, how are you, my boy? How are you? Take a chair. Meligan, get him a—"

"Thanks," declined Standish. "I can talk better on my feet."

"Oh!" deprecated Blake, in pathetic disappointment. "You've come to talk? I was hoping you had come to—"

"To lie down?" supplemented Standish.

"Well," answered Blake graciously, "the man who lies down can get up again. But the man who is knocked down, is apt to take the count."

"The question is this, Mr. Standish," broke in Mark, impatiently at his father-in-law's slower method of reaching the point. "Will you support us, or will you not?"

"I will not," returned Standish. "Or at least resign your leadership."

"No. I thought we had settled all that."

"Then," asked Van Dyke, "you are prepared to take the consequences, Mr. Standish?"

"If there are consequences—yes."

"Oh, there'll be consequences, all right," Blake assured him. "He'll be full of consequences." So you won't even protect the Woman?

"You haven't found her yet?"

"No," smiled Blake. "Son, I told you there was a trap. Well, it caught her. And we'll have her name in half an hour at most. Probably sooner, if you think that's a bluff, you're welcome to. But you've only a half-hour to keep on thinking it."

"Look here, gentlemen," said Standish, turning to the others. "All this does not interest me in the least. I came here tonight for just one reason—to appeal to your sense of justice."

"You can't beat me," he went on. "And you know it as well as I do. I am secure. But, for the sake of others, I ask you not to make political capital out of something in my private life."

Gregg's loose mouth parted in a grin. Meligan laughed aloud. But Mark Robertson could see no humor in the situation.

"You're wrong, Standish," he declared. "This scandal will beat you. Let us suppose, for argument's sake, that it would," agreed Standish. "Can't I appeal to your honor? Won't you fight fairly?"

"We'll publish the truth," retorted Mark. "If that's unfair."

"It is unfair. If not to me, then to the Woman."

"It's too late to go into that matter now, Mr. Standish. Your argument is here tonight is, by itself, strong proof against you; if further proof were needed."

"Standish made a gesture of weary impatience."

"Prove!" he echoed. "I don't deny the story. You wouldn't dare use it if you couldn't prove it. But, gentlemen, there comes a time—even in politics—when we've got to be men first and politicians afterward."

"Then," suggested Blake, "be a man. Give up the fight."

"No," replied Standish. "I won't be blackmailed. The affair was over and done with before I asked the people to accept me as their leader. Long before. It has no bearing on my present fitness."

"That's your misfortune," sneered Mark. "The people have a right to know who represent them. In the newspaper articles we have prepared, there are no facts we cannot prove; your affair with the Woman—your failure to carry out your pledge to marry her—"

"Then the story is written?" exclaimed Standish.

"It is in type," put in Van Dyke, "and waiting our word to send it out to the whole country."

"I see," mused Standish. "And I see how such a story will be handled in print. You'll use every trick of suggestion, every last inflection of a lie—"

"And," cried Mark, "it will beat you. It will beat you, man—and that's what we've been working for, for years."

"I'm not beaten yet," retorted Standish. "And I advise you, Governor Robertson, to be careful."

"Oh, we shall be careful," retorted Van Dyke. "The proprietor of the hotel in coming tonight. The hotel where Mr. and Mrs. Fowler were registered. We may not need him to identify her. But he'll be on hand in case we do. Take my word for it, Mr. Standish, you'll save a great deal of unnecessary trouble if you'll quietly step down and out."

"If I did," said Standish. "I would be politically dead. You know that."

"You're politically dead, anyway," insisted Mark. "If this story will beat you tonight, it will beat you 20 years from today. Particularly if this woman proves to be—what shall we call it?—a trifle of color?"

"Robertson!"

"Ah! That hurts, does it? Then it's probably true. If the Woman is the kind that—that would not do you credit, you can understand how much more effective it will be."

"You are wrong!" denied Standish. "She is of good family. She—"

"She may have been a good woman when you found her," said Mark. "But there must have been a bad streak in her, somewhere. You left her to sink as low as I expect to find her and—"

"Drop that, Mark!" burst out Tom Blake, jumping from his seat and confronting his brother-in-law. "Don't! I can't listen to it any longer. Standish is right. What you men are doing is vile. If you've got a scrap of manhood left in the whole bunch of you, you won't drag this Woman into your dirty schemes. I—"

"Oh," drawled Blake with the air of a sleepy man bothered by a fly, "for the love of Mike, don't you butt in! The situation's punk enough as it is, without your laying your trophies of idiocy at its feet."

"Idiocy?" flared Tom. "Perhaps common decency's a better term. Or perhaps in your vocabulary the two mean the same thing. You men are known as political leaders. The public looks to you for examples. And yet you stoop to a carish trick like this! Isn't there enough whiteness in you to protest against such use of a woman's name? You've just been told she's of good family. That she has a name to lose. And you answer: 'Political necessity!' You know this story will destroy at least two lives. Probably several more. And again you answer: 'Political necessity!' You have the power to ruin these lives. If you use that power, I tell you now, one and all—my father as well as the rest—"

"Hello, Jennings, This is Blake."

"4400 Main."

"No, no!" reiterated Grace wildly, turning from him to Blake. "Father! You won't allow this? Please! For my sake—"

"Hello!" Mark was calling into the transmitter. "That you, Jennings? This is Robertson. Is that Standish story ready? All right—can you surely get in for the morning papers? Last editions, eh?—All right—Yes—In the big cities—What's that?"

"Mr. Standish!" appealed Grace brokenly.

"Blake!" exclaimed Standish. "You don't dare publish that story without the Woman's name!"

"In less than five minutes," retorted Blake, glancing at the clock. "It'll be too late for the morning papers. We'll take a chance."

"Remember!" answered Standish with sudden vehemence. "I warn you—"

"Mark!" begged Grace. "Oh, I know—"

"What's that, Jennings?"

calling over the wire. "Yes, I tell you I am Robertson and I am speaking for Mr. Blake. What do you say you want? I can't catch it!"

"Blake!" continued Standish. "I warn you I'll deny the story. And if you put the Woman's name on it—"

"Don't it, all right!" drawled Blake. "Hell! You haven't time to get a wire before they go to press. The story'll be all over America before your denial can leave Washington."

"I tell you," Mark was coming into the transmitter. "That I'm speaking on Mr. Blake's authority. Oh, all right, then! Hold the wire. Jim," he went on, turning to Blake, "Jennings says he won't send out that story without your personal order. He knows your voice. He says if you'll tell him, over the phone, that it is all right, he'll go ahead. Hurry. There's only about a minute left."

He handed the instrument across the table to Blake.

"Father!" entreated Grace, seizing Blake's arm. "For my sake, you mustn't—"

"Grace!" snapped Blake. "I'm plumb ashamed of you. You're acting like a sick schoolgirl. Go to your room. Hello, Jennings! This is Blake—Hello—"

"Hold on, Blake!" ordered Standish. "I'll give you her name. Show—"

"Wait!" screamed Grace, beseeching him with pain and fear.
